

Why Is Putin Ordering All Russian Troops Out Of Syria? Iran Gives Ultimatum To Rogue CIA Army In Syria!

By Sorch Faal

A sternly worded Ministry of Defense (MoD) report circulating in the Kremlin today states that President Putin has just made a surprise stopover at Khmeimim Airbase where he has ordered the withdrawal of Russian troops from Syria—whom just 5 days ago, on 6 December, the General Staff announced had liberated Syria from the Islamic State (IS/ISIS/ISIL/Daesh), with Iraq quickly following suit by proclaiming their total defeat of these barbaric ISIS terrorists, too—but with Putin’s “main/central” motivation for issuing this order being Iran having just warned the United States to immediately pull all of its troops out of Syria, “or the doors of hell will open up”. [Note: Some words and/or phrases appearing in quotes in this report are English language approximations of Russian words/phrases having no exact counterpart.]

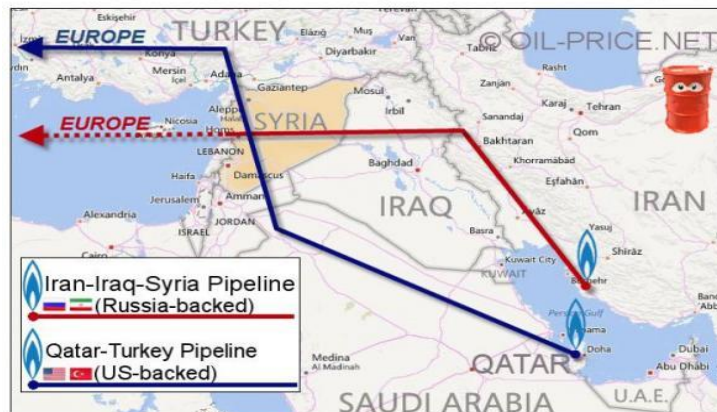

President Putin orders Russian troops to leave Syria during meeting with Syrian President Assad at Khmeimim Airbase on 11 December 2017

According to this report, ISIS was a wholly Obama-Clinton regime creation intended to destroy the Syrian government of Bashar al-Assad in order to allow Saudi Arabia and Qatar to build vast oil and gas pipelines through Syria to the highly lucrative European market—that Hillary Clinton herself received tens-of-millions of dollars for supporting—and that, also, then US presidential candidate Donald Trump, in 2016, warned the American people about by his calling Obama “the founder of ISIS” and Hillary Clinton “its co-founder”.

Known to Trump, though not being told to the American people by their propaganda mainstream media, this report continues, was that this Obama-Clinton scheme to destroy Syria posed a direct threat to the vital national interests of Iran, Lebanon and Iraq—all of whom had invested billions-of-dollars to build their own oil and gas pipelines through Syria to the European market—with the difference being that unlike the Americans, they had all secured legal agreements to do so with the Syrian government.

Trying to take by military force what wasn't theirs to have, this report explains, the Obama-Clinton regime unleashed their ISIS terrorist forces upon Syria and Iraq in order to create a fait accompli justifying the introduction of US troops, who were intended to carve up the entire Middle East in order to create more "friendly" to them governments—but who were stopped from being able to do so when Iran sent thousands of its troops to defend both Iraq and Syria, with Lebanon, also, sending tens-of-thousands of its Iranian backed Hezbollah forces to protect Syria, too—all of whom were protected by massive Russian military air power.

"New Middle East" map envisioned by the Obama-Clinton regime

Upon President Trump taking power earlier this year, this report details, he ordered funding ended to these Obama-Clinton terrorists in Syria—and that in the last 7 months alone, has allowed over 70,000 square kilometers of Syrian territory to be liberated \(over 43,495 square miles\) and over 32,000 of these barbaric Islamic radical terrorists to be killed—and whose captured weapons stores given to them by the Obama-Clinton regime being so massive, Syria is now able to create even more combat brigades to defend themselves.

but to send them to see God is my duty"
Vladimir Putin

With the Obama-Clinton regimes ISIS terrorists now being destroyed in Syria, this report continues, Syrian-Iranian-Hezbollah forces are now concentrating their power on liberating the northern Idlib Governorate from the US-backed Islamic terrorists operating there—most particularly the CIA-funded and supported al-Qaeda's Nusra Front.

The grave danger posed, however, to this Syrian-Iranian Hezbollah offensive in the northern Idlib Governorate of Syria, this report explains, is that it puts them in direct confrontation with the CIA-led American military forces located in that region protecting their Islamic terrorists—and that has led Iranian Revolutionary Guards Corp General Haj Qassem Soleimani to send a formal verbal message, via Russia, to the head of the US forces command in Syria, advising him to pull out all US forces to the last soldier "or the doors of hell will open up"—and who warned last week:

My message to the US military command: when the battle against ISIS will end, no American soldier will be tolerated in Syria. I advise you to leave by your own will or you will be forced to it.

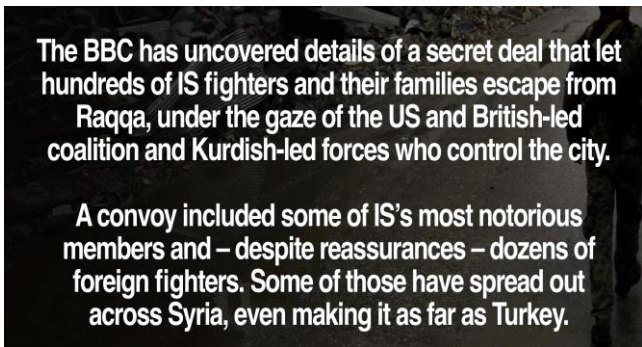

Iranian General Haj Qassem Soleimani warns Americans to leave Syria immediately

Not being told to the American people by their propaganda mainstream media about these US military forces in Syria, this report says, is that they are conducting an illegal war in violation of all international and United Nations laws—and whose numbers in combat there US Army Major General James Jarrard just stated were over 4,000—but whom the Pentagon quickly contradicted by claiming there were only 503—and both of them being followed by the US Department of Defense then having to shockingly admit that it has no idea where 44,000 of its troops are, and who could be anywhere in the world.

Though the US Department of Defense may not know where their troops are, though, this report details, the MoD most certainly does—and who have documented thousands of them being in the, at least, 14 bases these American military forces have illegal built in Syria—and whose true mission-purpose has not been to battle ISIS, as these American-backed forces have accounted for just a mere 17% of the action against these barbaric Islamic terrorists.

Rather than fighting ISIS, however, this report explains, the American military has done everything in their power to protect them in both Iraq and Syria—to include their shockingly signing a secret agreement with ISIS allowing these barbaric terrorist fighters to flee the battlefields of Syria before they could be exterminated.

The BBC has uncovered details of a secret deal that let hundreds of IS fighters and their families escape from Raqqa, under the gaze of the US and British-led coalition and Kurdish-led forces who control the city.

A convoy included some of IS's most notorious members and – despite reassurances – dozens of foreign fighters. Some of those have spread out across Syria, even making it as far as Turkey.

With Syrian President Assad having already labeled these American military forces in Syria as “invaders”, this report continues, their true mission-purpose has nothing at all to do with ISIS, but is, instead, aimed at creating a buffer between Iran and the rest of the Middle East, which could lay the groundwork for an all-out confrontation with Iran and its allies—especially due to the US having lost its military gamble in Syria, and who are now, also, losing the diplomatic peace process, too.

If the Americans don't remove their military forces as Iran has demanded, and is seeking to create a confrontation in order to expand its wars across the entire Middle East, this report says, President Putin in his ordering Russian forces to leave Syria includes his warning that should “they” (US/ISIS/CIA, etc.) try to “rear their heads” in Syria again, Russia will strike them as “they have never seen before.”

With the highly the reputed US-based nonprofit global policy think tank Rand Corporation having just released its 190 page report titled “U.S. Military Capabilities and Forces for a Dangerous World”, wherein it warns the United States can very well, indeed, be defeated by Russia and China, MoD analysts state, one would logically assume that the American people are being truthfully informed about all of the facts relating to Syria before their nation is plunged into war—but that the Los Angeles Times in their 10 December article titled “The Pundits Were Wrong About Assad And The Islamic State. As Usual, They're Not Willing To Admit It” stunningly reveals comes nowhere close to being true, and among whose war propaganda atrocities they document include:

CNN's Michael Weiss pushed the line that Assad and Russian President Vladimir Putin would not fight Islamic State and that Syria and Russia were the group's “unacknowledged air force.”

The Daily Beast described Islamic State fighters as “Assad's henchmen.” The New York Times promoted the idea that “Assad's forces” have been “aiding” Islamic State by “not only avoiding” the group “but actively seeking to bolster their position.”

Time Magazine parroted the pro-regime-change line that “Bashar Assad won't fight” Islamic State.

The pundits were wrong about Assad and the Islamic State. As usual, they're not willing to admit it

The rollback of Islamic State must come as a shock to the chorus of journalists and analysts who spent years insisting that such progress would never happen without toppling the regime of Bashar Assad — which is, of course, still standing.

Rather than being “shocked” by their lies being exposed, though, this report continues, the US propaganda mainstream media continues to spew out a never ending stream of “fake news”—and as fearfully documented by Pulitzer Prize investigative journalist Glenn Greenwald in his 9 December article titled “The U.S. Media Yesterday Suffered its Most Humiliating Debacle in Ages: Now Refuses All Transparency Over What Happened”, and wherein he wrote:

Friday was one of the most embarrassing days for the U.S. media in quite a long time. The humiliation orgy was kicked off by CNN, with MSNBC and CBS close behind, and countless pundits, commentators, and operatives joining the party throughout the day.

By the end of the day, it was clear that several of the nation’s largest and most influential news outlets had spread an explosive but completely false news story to millions of people, while refusing to provide any explanation of how it happened.

That’s just the last week alone. Let’s just remind ourselves of how many times major media outlets have made humiliating, breathtaking errors on the Trump-Russia story, always in the same direction, toward the same political goals.

Here is just a sample of incredibly inflammatory claims that traveled all over the internet before having to be corrected, walked back, or retracted — often long after the initial false claims spread, and where the corrections receive only a tiny fraction of the attention with which the initial false stories are lavished:

- Russia hacked into the U.S. electric grid to deprive Americans of heat during winter (Wash Post)
- An anonymous group (PropOrNot) documented how major U.S. political sites are Kremlin agents (Wash Post)
- WikiLeaks has a long, documented relationship with Putin (Guardian)
- A secret server between Trump and a Russian bank has been discovered (Slate)
- RT hacked C-SPAN and caused disruption in its broadcast (Fortune)
- Russians hacked into a Ukrainian artillery app (Crowdstrike)
- Russians attempted to hack elections systems in 21 states (multiple news outlets, echoing Homeland Security)
- Links have been found between Trump ally Anthony Scaramucci and a Russian investment fund under investigation (CNN)

That really is just a small sample.

So continually awful and misleading has this reporting been that even Vladimir Putin's most devoted critics — such as Russian expatriate Masha Gessen, oppositional Russian journalists, and anti-Kremlin liberal activists in Moscow — are constantly warning that the U.S. media's unhinged, ignorant, paranoid reporting on Russia is harming their cause in all sorts of ways, in the process destroying the credibility of the U.S. media in the eyes of Putin's opposition (who — unlike Americans who have been fed a steady news and entertainment propaganda diet for decades about Russia — actually understand the realities of that country).

With world peace now actually hanging in the balance as Syrian-Iranian military forces move closer to the American military troops, who are illegally operating in Syria to protect their Islamic terrorists from being annihilated, this report concludes, the US propaganda mainstream medias response to having their lies exposed has now going full “Orwellian”—and as exemplified by CNN now telling its viewers that “factually inaccurate reports” (normal people call them lies) are “a natural by-product of fighting President Trump”—with their further claiming that that these “mistakes” (again, normal people call them lies) are “precisely the reason that people should trust the media”—and that confirmed to the MoD that all of these American propaganda mainstream media people have now gone insane.
