

US's Economic Reasons For Wars in Ukraine and Israel

Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin announcing at the Reagan Defense Forum:

“We’ve launched what the Army calls the most ambitious modernization effort in nearly 40 years for our defense industrial base...Some $50 billion of our supplemental budget request would flow through our defense industrial base...And that will create or support tens of thousands of good American jobs in more than 30 states...”

Russia’s Security Council Deputy Chairman Dmitry Medvedev observed:

“A straightforward and simple-minded person, the general unhesitatingly stated the reason for the United States involvement in the conflict between Russia and Ukraine...The United States is not driven by a desire to help stop Ukraine from disappearing from the world map or by an intent to fight for democracy against tyranny...Moreover, the United States is apparently not even motivated by its repeatedly proclaimed goal of even confronting Russia to diminish its defense capacity...It turns out, it’s all about defense goods commissioning to increase military production output and create jobs...And, possibly, about the enormous profit that the companies close to the Biden administration get from it”.

Politico released its article:

“Bombenomics: Biden Admin Circulates Map Showing States That Benefit From Ukraine Aid...Battleground states Pennsylvania and Arizona are reaping billions of dollars from Washington’s efforts to arm Ukraine, according to a graphic the Biden administration has circulated on Capitol Hill...The circulation of the graphic is part of the administration’s push to sell the American public — and their congressional representatives — on President Joe Biden’s proposal to spend billions of additional taxpayer dollars on the wars in Ukraine and Israel...”

“US Dominating Global Arms Trade: The revenues of the 42 American firms in the top 100 accounted for 51% of total weapons sales.”

“Trading In Death Responsibly: ‘Woke’ Funds Funnel $5 Trillion Into Arms Industry... ESG – or Environmental, Social, and Governance investing – provides a framework for investing in funds that take into account environmental, social, and governance factors...It is often used interchangeably with terms like socially responsible investing and sustainable investing...Surprisingly, these funds, celebrated for their ethical foundations, have funneled a jaw-dropping $5 trillion into the arms industry”.

Gold And Bitcoin Spearhead A Rebellion Against The Dollar

“Gold has achieved a remarkable milestone, hitting a new all-time high above $2,100 on Monday, while Bitcoin broke through the psychological level of $40,000...This remarkable surge is underpinned by several factors, notably the Federal Reserve's anticipated dovish pivot and a weakening dollar

Fox Business:

“The financial world legend who predicted Lehman Brothers' collapse is sounding the alarm over America's "serious" financial troubles..."I hate to say this because, you know I love America, but America is in serious trouble financially because of the debt load", Rich Dad Company co-founder Robert Kiyosak said during his appearance on "Cavuto: Coast to Coast"..."I think the biggest problem, Neil, is we have the Three Stooges, you know, one in the presidency, one in the Treasury and one at the Fed"..."America is broke right now", Kiyosaki told host Neil Cavuto”.
