Don't Go Thinking You Know How This Plays-Out

What dangers lurk out there? Economy collapse—that's a for sure. We go to war with China? Possibly, but that one may take some time. NATO (at US behest), goes to war with Russia in Ukraine? That's still likely, but more iffy with passing days. Russia and the US at war over Palestine? Only economic collapse is more certain than that one.

What about the possibility Kamila Harris becomes the 47th president of the US? Pundits dwell on Kamila being the worst candidate ever and she may well be. Nevertheless, do we get to see the inauguration of Kamila, who, unqualified as Biden, insists she gets her turn in the Oval Office. And without a proper election, she's now selected.

Kamila was the most 'woke' senator in Congress (by voting record). That fact, if wielded correctly may be what gets her elected. I say this having maintained Trump is likely to be elected, but, with an eye to an overview—we can't assume any outcomes.

Pundits such as Victor Davis Hanson misjudge Kamila's chances to win, as in this post: None of the Biden-Harris administration's main policy initiatives ever polled 50 percent approval. Au contraire, Victor—demographic facts belie any rational thinking.

The worst thing Kamila can do to lessen her chances at victory is to back away from who she is (as her erstwhile VP candidate Shapiro did—denying having served in the IDF). Because the US is socialist/communist, Kamila needs lean as left as possible.

In support of that fact, contrary to the US being awash in guns, only 28% of Americans own a gun—meaning 72% do not. And of those who do not (depending on which poll is cited), 55 to 90% of all Americans strongly support more restrictive gun laws.

79% of millennials would vote for a socialist candidate. Also, 70 percent of students believe that speech can be as damaging as physical violence. 3/4s of those on the left want student debt relief, and 75% on the left want to see more affordable housing.

What else does the left want? 80% want free health care and 83% want a much higher minimum wage. And though, not as pertinent as in the past, 71% support labor unions (bureaucratic nightmares that artificially raise wages, only in selected sectors?).

The socialist collective doesn't understand that something can't be gotten for nothing. As entitled America, it wants what it can get—not understanding that the printing of unproductive dollars is what will soon destroy them—along with the United States.

With the proposed election only 3 months away, and the nation leaning 'hard left', if Kamila can hold to the left, without bursting-out laughing when mass murder is brought up, and Trump manages to shoot himself in the feet—let the Kamila nightmare begin.

Donald Trump, who narrowly escaped assassination, taking a bullet across the ear, needs to be mindful where he puts his energy. Any BS around whether or not Kamila Harris is black (when there is so much about her that can be gone after legitimately), will not serve him—especially with women. It worked back when he called-out the Jeb Bush intellect as a 'bag of rocks'. But now it's gotten serious—with much more at stake. Trump could lose this election with utterances of 'raining bombs' or stopping protests.

Unfortunately, we abide in a nation where a fool such as Kamila, given the proper treatment, might actually win. 69% of her constituents support same-sex marriage. 72% of the left want dollars out of politics (if it offers a better chance for them to win). With a promise of ultimate control, without science or debate, 70% of the left believe we are in a climate crisis. Also, without a noticeable thought process, 83% of dems support immediate ceasefire in Gaza—the same group, spoken for by congressional applauders, support Israel's right to defend itself using 500 and 2000 lb. US bombs.

70% of dems support legal, federal, abortion. 70% want legal marijuana (okay—government has no business deciding which drugs are illegal). Then, there's taxes. 79% of dems (not realizing it's already the case), think the rich should pay more. The rich already pay more income tax—half the nation pays none. Plus, the rich pay a death tax.

89% of the socialist left oppose gerrymandering, unless they're redrawing the lines. And, in a show or ignorance of the founder's intentions with the Bill of Rights/Constitution, 65% want term limits on the Supreme Court and abolishment of electoral college. These they see as a hindrance to mob rule democracy—as the founder's intended. They want to pack and term limit the Supreme Court (but only when the rulings don't go their way). FDR styled socialists who opt to pack the court and impose term limits.

Using its position of power, the left continues to strip away citizen's rights. Of a few patriots to have served in Congress, Tulsi Gabbard is being surveilled by US Intel/Quiet Skies. She is followed (with dogs) at airports, and on planes as a potential terrorist.

Real Crime? It's a felony to lie to Congress, whether or not one is under oath. Netanyahu's longest of 58 standing ovations (mostly for lies), was to condemn his American protesters, just outside, as useful idiots, while addressing preeminent useful idiots.

With open disregard for rule of law, the left heads into the presidential election using a well-worn playbook. Millions of illegals are registered to vote. Electronic voting machines are ready to function, with an assured reliance of absentee and mail-in ballots.

Kamila is the worst candidate since Mondale? Maybe, but the country has even less attention span than back then. The left controls the apparatus, so what stops them? An economic collapse, for which elites are blamed? I'm okay with an October collapse.

Anything LBT-XYX is off-the-chart support for Kamila. At the Olympics, the International Boxing Association rep gave evidence that 2 boxers (sanctioned by the IOC to beat-up women because their passports ID them as women), previously failed tests to determine sex. The IBA offered to fund further tests—but the boxers declined. In a science denial, free speech reprisal, the audience hearing the evidence went berserk.

Which brings a thought: when oligarchs take control, science falls into disrepute. Without rule of law (poly-sci), things degenerate. This was the case during the French Revolution, a period/event few Americans understand. Or, how it differed from the American Revolution. Revolutionary consequences need to be made clear. Next time.
