

Zelensky – A Clown, A Psychopath, A Traitor And Stooge - Paid and Bought For

By Matthias Chang – Future Fast-Forward

Zelensky, the clown and mouthpiece of USA, UK, EU and NATO was politically and ‘diplomatically whacked’ by President Trump at the White House and deservedly so. Unlike all previous US presidents, President Trump wants peace and told the scoundrel Zelensky not to start WWII.

That does not mean that US is not a hegemonic power or that I support everything done by President Trump. I support President Trump and anyone who supports peace and to stop WWII.

If I had any power, I would arrest Zelensky, a war criminal, a former president of Ukraine for War Crimes and crimes against humanity etc. Unfortunately, I have not but, I have a pen / computer to expose the lies and hypocrisy regarding the current state of global affairs!

Let’s be clear and unambiguous and not create confusion. We must be pragmatic because the entire world failed humanity by not stopping the mass killing in Ukraine and Gaza.

And I dare debate with anyone publicly on my above statements and the views expressed in this article.

Some Pertinent Historical Facts

After the collapse of the corrupt and oligarchic regime of the Soviet Union under the thumb of Boris Yeltsin, the Western powers led by President Ronald Reagan and reaffirmed by all subsequent US Presidents (save and except President Trump) and the stooges of the Zionist Anglo-American Empire that, in exchange for the unification of Germany, Western Powers etc. would not advance ONE INCH beyond the borders of the former Warsaw Pact countries to threaten Russia, replacing the moribund Soviet Union!

The former Soviet Union sacrificed over 27 million patriots in defeating Nazi Germany in WWII, a war instigated by the then collapsing British Empire.

I dare challenge ANYONE to refute my source and debate with me, and if they lose, issue a public apology and if they don’t apologise, be damned for lying. No compromise!

U.S. Secretary of State James Baker’s famous “not one inch eastward” assurance about NATO expansion in his meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev on February 9, 1990, was part of a cascade of assurances about Soviet security given by Western leaders to Gorbachev and other Soviet officials throughout the process of German unification in 1990 and on into 1991, according to declassified U.S., Soviet, German, British and French documents posted today by the National Security Archive at George Washington University.

See also <http://nsarchive.gwu.edu>.

Security assurances against NATO expansion to Soviet leaders were given from Baker, Bush, Genscher, Kohl, Gates, Mitterrand, Thatcher, Hurd, Major, and Woerner:-

The documents show that multiple national leaders were considering and rejecting Central and Eastern European membership in NATO as of early 1990 and through 1991, that discussions of NATO in the context of German unification negotiations in 1990 were not at all narrowly limited to the status of East German territory, and that subsequent Soviet and Russian complaints about being misled about NATO expansion were founded in written contemporaneous memcons and telcons at the highest levels.

The documents reinforce former CIA Director Robert Gates's criticism of "pressing ahead with expansion of NATO eastward [in the 1990s], when Gorbachev and others were led to believe that wouldn't happen." The key phrase, buttressed by the documents, is "led to believe."

President George H.W. Bush had assured Gorbachev during the Malta summit in December 1989 that the U.S. would not take advantage ("I have not jumped up and down on the Berlin Wall") of the revolutions in Eastern Europe to harm Soviet interests; but neither Bush nor Gorbachev at that point (or for that matter, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl) expected so soon the collapse of East Germany or the speed of German unification.

The first concrete assurances by Western leaders on NATO began on January 31, 1990, when West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher opened the bidding with a major public speech at Tutzing, in Bavaria, on German unification. The U.S. Embassy in Bonn (see Document 1) informed Washington that Genscher made clear "that the changes in Eastern Europe and the German unification process must not lead to an 'impairment of Soviet security interests.' Therefore, NATO should rule out an 'expansion of its territory towards the east, i.e. moving it closer to the Soviet borders.'" The Bonn cable also noted Genscher's proposal to leave the East German territory out of NATO military structures even in a unified Germany in NATO.

This latter idea of special status for the GDR territory was codified in the final German unification treaty signed on September 12, 1990, by the Two-Plus-Four foreign ministers (see Document 25). The former idea about "closer to the Soviet borders" is written down not in treaties but in multiple memoranda of conversation between the Soviets and the highest-level Western interlocutors (Genscher, Kohl, Baker, Gates, Bush, Mitterrand, Thatcher, Major, Woerner, and others) offering assurances throughout 1990 and into 1991 about protecting Soviet security interests and including the USSR in new European security structures. The two issues were related but not the same. Subsequent analysis sometimes conflated the two and argued that the discussion did not involve all of Europe. The documents published below show clearly that it did.

The "Tutzing formula" immediately became the center of a flurry of important diplomatic discussions over the next 10 days in 1990, leading to the crucial February 10, 1990, meeting in Moscow between Kohl and Gorbachev when the West German leader achieved Soviet assent in principle to German unification in NATO, as long as NATO did not expand to the east.

In December of 2005, I organised an International Forum for former Prime Minister, Tun Mahathir Mohamad and helped draft the Declaration “The Kuala Lumpur Initiative To Criminalise War” for which I was also one of the signatories of the Declaration, including two retired former Assistant Secretary General of the United Nations, Denis Halliday and Han von Sponeck!

Enough is enough to all war mongers, especially Zelensky who do not deserve any respect. To maintain obscene power, that criminal sacrificed over a million Ukrainians (killed and or wounded) in the proxy war with Russia.

Cutting To The Chase

‘Fuck the EU’ US diplomat Victoria Nuland's phone call leaked ...

A conversation between a State Department official and the U.S. ambassador to Ukraine that was posted on YouTube revealed an embarrassing exchange on U.S. strategy for a political transition in that country, including a crude American swipe at the European Union. The leaked conversation appeared certain to embarrass the United States and seemed designed to bolster charges - from Russia, among others - that the Ukrainian opposition is being manipulated by Washington, which President Barack Obama's administration strenuously disputes. The audio clip, which was posted on Tuesday but gained wide circulation on Thursday, appears to show the official, Assistant Secretary of State Victoria Nuland, weighing in on the make-up of the next Ukrainian government.

Nuland is heard telling U.S. Ambassador Geoffrey Pyatt that she doesn't think Vitaly Klitschko, the boxer-turned-politician who is a main opposition leader, should be in a new government. "So I don't think Klitsch (Klitschko) should go into the government," she said in the recording, which appeared to describe events that occurred in late January. "I don't think it's necessary. I don't think it's a good idea."

Separately on Thursday, a senior Kremlin aide accused the United States of arming Ukrainian "rebels" and warned Russia could intervene to maintain the security of its neighbor. U.S. officials, while declining to confirm the recording's contents, did not dispute its authenticity..... In the first audio, Nuland and Pyatt are heard discussing strategies to work with the three main opposition figures: Klitschko, Arseny Yatseniuk, former Ukrainian economy minister, and Oleh Tyahnybok, the far-right nationalist opposition leader.

Nuland referred to getting the United Nations involved in a political solution in Kiev. "So that would be great, I think, to help glue this thing and have the U.N. help glue it and you know ... fuck the EU," she said in the recording, which was accompanied by still pictures of people mentioned in the call.

Query for Malaysians

Would any Malaysian political leader or citizen allow and condone the mass killing of Malays / Bumiputeras in any neighbouring countries since 2014 and not take arms to protect the Malays / Bumiputeras?

Is President Trump wrong is whacking Zelensky for slaughtering Russians in Ukraine – in Crimea and parts of the Luhansk Oblast and Donetsk Oblast since 2014, and parts of the Zaporizhzhia Oblast and Kherson Oblast) since 2022 and not work for peace?

Is stopping the killing and for President Putin to launch a military operation to protect Russians wrong?

Notwithstanding the US President Biden and Obama initiated a coup and provoked the war in Ukraine to destroy Russia, is President Trump wrong in declaring that he wants the killing to stop?

This is indeed a surprise to many Malaysians, that the leader of the US Empire is against war. But, the world remains silent and could not be bothered!

Why did Malaysian governments still maintain relations with the US, UK and Europe at all material times, when these countries committed war crimes and neo-colonialism since 1957, the date of Malaysia's Independence?

So, let us not be hypocrites.

No Illusions

I do not have illusions about the present state of global affairs. I have given several warnings and demanded that those who received my warnings preserve them as evidence for and or against me. Who dare assert such transparency and scrutiny? Zilch! I refuse to indulge in intellectual masturbations.

Prime Minister of UK, Keir Starmer hugs Zelensky after the whacking in the White House and declared that he will send 30,000 British soldiers to be cannon fodders to die in Ukraine but with a cowardly caveat – provided the US backs his stand!

Why need US soldiers to be suckers to fight British wars?

Ditto for France under the thumbs of Macron, who together with UK's Prime Minister, Keir Starmer recently established the fake "Coalition of the Willing" but will only fight the Russians, if the US agrees to be suckers!

Piss Off!
